

WRITING ANOTHER STORY ABOUT BASEBALL'S WOES?

STOP THE PRESS!

Hey there salty ol' hack! Stop what you're doing! Don't think we haven't noticed you banging away on your trusty typewriter in your endless quest to satiate the fans unquenchable thirst for 'infotainment'. And now that the IOC has added trampolining as an official event, you can be sure the workload ain't gettin any lighter!

But there is good news! The folks at ilovetoscore.com appreciate your efforts and we'd like to reward you. With Pitchers and Catchers just around the corner, now is the perfect time for . . . the annual Baseball Score Keeping Story!! Like Punxsutawney Phil, tales of scorekeeping seem to appear with the last frost. Why? Because these babies practically write themselves! They've got the elements that every reader desires: tasty quotes . . . salacious stories . . . memories of yesteryear. All of this without a single mention of marginal athletes signing obscene contracts for teams that may not be here tomorrow! What better way is there to herald the new season?!

As the publisher of America's premiere baseball scorebook, ilovetoscore.com is eager to provide you with a manufacturer's and fan's perspective! Everything you need to complete your story is just a phone call away. Don't wait . . . call today!!

HAVEN'T HEARD OF ILOVETOSCORE? PLEASE READ ON:

The ilovetoscore.com scorebook is designed for the baseball fan. It contains scoring instructions and room to score 40 games. The book measures 9 x 12 inches; small enough to be easily carried to a game, yet large enough to provide ample room on each page. Coil binding and a vinyl back cover insure the durability of this book through the dog days of summer and beyond! The ilovetoscore.com scorebook is the last scorebook you'll ever need!

CONTACT ILOVETOSCORE.COM:
EMAIL MICHAEL SCHWARTZ AT MICHAEL@ILOVETOSCORE.COM

VISIT ILOVETOSCORE.COM TODAY!